DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: In line 20, "distal" should be changed to proximal. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Woehr et al. (6,117,108). See Figures 1A-1B and the respective portions of the specification. Woehr discloses a catheter assembly comprising a needle hub (12) with a needle (16) attached thereto, a catheter hub (26) with a catheter tube (24) attached thereto, a protective clip (40) comprising a resilient arm (50) and a proximal wall (54) comprising an opening (58) sized to accommodate the needle, the opening comprising a circumferential rim comprising an upper rim and a lower rim, a ready to use position in which the catheter hub is removably engaged to a nose section of the distal end of the needle and the needle projected into the lumen of the catheter tube and defining a holding space bounded by the interior cavity of the catheter hub and a portion of the nose section of the needle hub, the protective clip being positioned in the holding space with a portion associated with the resilient arm of the protective clip contacting an annular groove engagement surface (48) on the interior cavity of the catheter hub, a retracted position in which the catheter hub is disengaged from the nose section of the needle hub, the portion associated with the resilient arm of the protective clip no longer contacting the engagement surface on the interior cavity of the catheter hub, and the proximal wall of the protective clip positioned at an angle to the axis of the needle such that the needle contacts the upper rim portion and the lower rim portion to frictionally cooperate with the circumferential rim, wherein the resilient arm is integrally formed with the proximal wall, and the protective clip comprises a second resilient arm comprising an opening (56) that extends from the proximal wall and the resilient arm extends from the second arm, wherein the resilient arm comprises a hook member (42) and further including a metallic tubular member (20) coaxially disposed with the catheter tube.

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.
